UN Troops, Congolese Natives Clash

Fierce Fight Reported In Two Cities

Several Members Of Moroccan Group Slain In Battles

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The United Nations African force was reported to have suffered its first losses in fighting with Congolese in two cities of the new African republic Monday.

The victims were Moroccan members of the U.N. peace force. The Belgian radio said mutinous native troops at Thysville fired on the Moroccans and killed several.

A second report said a separate Moroccan detachment engaged in fierce fighting with Congolese at the port city of Matadi, near the mouth of the Congo River, and there were casualties on both sides.

Enter Port City

This report, telephoned from the village of Nguoi on the border of Portuguese Angola, said the U.N. troops entered the big Congo port city but had not succeeded in occupying Matadi harbor, a center of continued labor unrest and violence since independence was granted by Belgium June 30.

The Congolese were said to have ransacked stores and homes along the harbor.

Belgian troops have not undertaken any serious police action at the port since an agreement was concluded with Congolese authorities to withdraw the Belgian navy from the city several days ago.

This was the first word of casualties among U.N. troops since they arrived last week under a mandate from the U.N. Security Council to restore order in the new republic.

Sent By Train

Moroccan troops had been sent by train to Thysville, about 75 miles southwest of the Congo capital of Leopoldville, to pacify the area.

An outbreak at the Thysville camp earlier this month started the mutiny that spread rapidly through much of the Congo's 25,000-man army.

Thysville also was reported to be a center for widespread troop violence including murder, rape and looting.

One Experience Proves Enough

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—His shoulder-length curls are but a memory, but four-year-old Vance Swann doesn't mind a bit.

It was truly a hair-raising experience that led Vance to the barber shop the last weekend as fast as his little legs could carry him.

It all developed when Vance and his brother, Byron, 8, went to North Park swimming pool.

The gatekeeper took Vance's ticket and pointed in the direction of the girls' locker room.

After Byron protested "he's my brother," the gatekeeper took a closer look. This time, he pointed Vance in the direction of the boys' locker.

But one experience like that was enough for Vance. Right after his swim, he headed for the barber shop to dispose of his confusing hair style.

Moscow Swelters In Torrid Weather

MOSCOW (AP)—Monday for the fourth straight day, Moscow broiled in 93-degree heat—and this city was not built for torrid weather. Citizens in their homes and buildings, often behind massive walls and without benefit of air conditioning, say there hasn't been such heat in this old capital since the Czarist year of 1905. The Russians had a revolution that year.

Blast Rocks Wisconsin City Store, 6 Killed

MERRILL, Wis. (AP)—An explosion and raging fire turned a modern department store into a pile of charred and burning debris Monday. Searchers, aided by a National Guard tank to clear the smoldering rubble, pulled five bodies from the building.

Einar Seger, 55, the former clerk for this city of about 10,000 persons in northern Wisconsin, died at a hospital shortly after his admission, placing the known dead at six.

Fire departments from five communities joined in battling to contain the blaze.

New Japanese Cabinet Faces Labor Crisis

TOKYO (AP)—Police and left-wing strikers massed Tuesday in the southern Kyushu coal-mining town of Omuta for a showdown in Japan's bitterest labor dispute while a new conservative government took over in Tokyo.

Hayato Ikeda, 60, a tough, outspoken financial expert, became the nation's ninth postwar prime minister. He named a Cabinet that intends to pursue the pro-Western policies of the previous regime of Nobusuke Kishi.

The Cabinet's immediate task will be tiding over the labor crisis at Omuta, some 600 miles southwest of this city, where striking leftist miners are attempting to override court authority.

About 10,000 police were mobilized to move against an estimated 20,000 men of a Mitsui Mining Co. colliery and their allies to enforce an 11-day-old court injunction ordering removal of pickets from the hoppers through which coal is relayed for shipment.

The strikers—protesting management plans to trim the working force—have dug trenches, erected sandbag and barbed wire barricades and armed themselves with iron bars and nail-spiked poles.

The police, moved in from a wide area, were equipped with pistols, tear gas and clubs. They also had steel helmets and gas masks.

The picket lines are backed by the Red-tinted Sohyo Labor Federation, the Communist party and the Socialists.

Plane Makes Safe Emergency Landing

BRUSSELS (UPI)—A Sabena DC-7-C flying 95 refugees from Congo to Belgium made a safe emergency landing with one engine on fire early Monday at the U. S. Air Force Base of Vitry Chalon, France, a Sabena spokesman said.

The refugees, 51 of whom were children, were flown to Brussels aboard a Sabena DC-6 sent to the American base to pick them up.

Stiffer Penalties

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—A new law providing stiffer penalties for tax and custom law violations has gone into effect. It raises maximum prison sentences from 3 to 5 years and boosts fines from $12,500 to $41,700 maximum.

Soviet Court Orders Powers Trial Aug. 17

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Supreme Court ordered Monday that pilot Francis Gary Powers stand trial Aug. 17 as a spy for his U2 flight over the Soviet Union.

The Virginian was expected to be the center of a trial here not matched recently in diplomatic scenery.

The rocket which brought him down in the important Ural industrial area around Sverdlovsk on May 1 precipitated a chain of events the peak of which was collapse of the summit conference in Paris.

Most observers here believe the trial will be in Moscow, the seat of the Supreme Court and the center of Soviet news and photo communications. But there is no official information on where it will be.

Powers, 30, will be tried under a series of Soviet laws which provide that:

1. All spies are tried before military tribunals.
2. All crimes of exceptional importance are tried before the Military Collegium of the Supreme Court.
3. The criminal liability for espionage carries a penalty of seven to 15 years or death. In the Soviet Union execution usually is by shooting.

Cuba Airs Grievance

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul J. Roa addresses the U. N. Security Council in New York where Cuba aired her grievance against the United States. At right, listening with microphones, is Cuba's permanent representative to the United Nations, Manuel Bisse. A resolution was made by Argentina and Ecuador to turn the dispute over to the Organization of American States, warning all others to refrain from aggravating the issue.

Kennedy Accepts Secret Data Offer

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower offered Monday to supply secret security information to Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson but only for their personal knowledge exclusively.

Kennedy immediately accepted for himself and Johnson.

The President's message appeared to rule out the possibility of Kennedy, Democratic presidential nominee, and Johnson, his vice presidential running mate, sharing the data with their advisers.

Kennedy originally had suggested the information be relayed to him through Adlai E. Stevenson and Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn) as his liaison representatives on foreign policy.

Under the White House proposal, the information would be supplied directly to Kennedy and Johnson during the campaign by representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Eisenhower sent essentially identical telegrams from the summer White House to Kennedy at Hyannis Port, Mass., and Johnson at Johnson City, Tex.

He notified them he believed it in the national interest to provide them, as leaders of a major party ticket, with "periodic briefings on the international scene from a responsible official of the Central Intelligence Agency."

"Because of the secret character of the information that would be furnished you," he said, "it would be exclusively for your personal knowledge. Otherwise, however, the receipt of such information would impose no restriction on full and free discussion."

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, was asked whether this would restrict the Democratic standard bearers from passing on the information to such advisers as Stevenson and Bowles.

He said, in apparent reference to the phrase "for your personal knowledge," that the telegram answered that.

Concerning the next sentence, relating to free discussion, Hagerty said this meant that public debate on foreign policy was not precluded in the campaign.

Eisenhower said in the wires that he already had requested Allen Dulles, CIA director, "to arrange procedural details with you or with some designated member of your staff."

Hagerty stressed in a news conference that this applied to arrangements for the briefings, such as where and when they would start, and not to the information itself.

Propose Recess Of Ban Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union and Britain have reportedly proposed to the United States that the three-power nuclear test ban talks in Geneva be recessed on Aug. 15.

U.S. officials in reporting this said the proposal made by the Soviet and British delegations in Geneva in an informal way is now under study here. They did not say how long a recess was proposed.

Officially the State Department conceded there has been talks in Geneva of breaking off the talks which began 20 months ago.

It was noted here with interest that the Soviet Union and Britain came up with the same proposed recess date, Aug. 15, indicating to some observers the two actually agreed on a common proposal before approaching the U.S. delegation.

State Department officials said they would prefer the conference to continue its work but should the Soviet Union and Britain insist on a recess, the United States would probably not object, informants said. It is realized here the administrative staff of the conference, provided by the United Nations, needs a break after the long negotiations.

Spain's Civil War Anniversary Noted

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Spain Monday observed the 24th anniversary of the start of the Spanish civil war, the three-year conflict which left a million dead.

Masses of thanksgiving for the victory of Gen. Francisco Franco's nationalist forces over the Spanish republicans were sung in churches throughout the country. Newspapers published articles extolling the regime's accomplishments since the war's end, March 31, 1939.

The White House Monday accused the Soviet Union of lying in claiming that a U.S. aircraft carrier and a tanker are attempting to assist Belgian forces in the strife-ridden Congo.

President Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said the claim was broadcast by the Moscow radio. Hagerty called it "typical of the lies we are getting from Moscow these days."

The broadcast said, Hagerty reported, that the American aircraft carrier Wasp is anchored at the mouth of the Congo River and is trying to assist Belgian forces at attempting to restore order in the newly independent Congo.

Moscow radio also claimed that an American tanker is anchored near the Wasp.

Scuffle Erupts Among Cubans And Catholics

HAVANA (AP)—Angry Roman Catholics staged a new demonstration against communism Monday and scuffled with young Cubans shouting "Yankees out." Police fired into the air to break up the fighting.

At least five persons, including three Americans, were reported injured.

Two Americans passing by were dragged out of their car and beaten up. They were Jeffrey Michael Price, 18, and his brother, Richard Anthony, 14. Their mother, Mrs. Irving B. Price, whose home town is New Haven, Conn., was bruised.

Mrs. Price, whose husband is vice president of the Cocoa Products Corp. here, lives in Havana with her family. She told police she and her sons were driving past the church when their car stalled and young Cubans who had been heckling the churchgoers yanked her two sons from the vehicle. The car was damaged by the mob.

All three were taken to the headquarters of the Military Investigation Department.

They were released almost six hours later.

The first known physical attack on Americans here came as Cuba accused the United States in the U.N. Security Council of trying to put a Red label on Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime. The United States denied the charge.

The Catholic demonstrators—many of them women—were estimated at 1,500. Members of the congregation clashed with youths and chanted "Cuba yes, communism, no."

The scene was outside the Church of the Capuchin Fathers, one of Havana's largest and most beautiful in the heart of the fashionable Miramar district.

Only a day earlier churchgoers in Havana's 200-year-old Roman Catholic Cathedral took up the chant "Cuba, yes; Russia, no." In the most spectacular anti-Communist display since Castro's government began veering sharply to the left.

Soviet Accused Of 'Typical Lie'

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—The White House Monday accused the Soviet Union of lying in claiming that a U.S. aircraft carrier and a tanker are attempting to assist Belgian forces in the strife-ridden Congo.

President Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said the claim was broadcast by the Moscow radio. Hagerty called it "typical of the lies we are getting from Moscow these days."

The broadcast said, Hagerty reported, that the American aircraft carrier Wasp is anchored at the mouth of the Congo River and is trying to assist Belgian forces at attempting to restore order in the newly independent Congo.

Moscow radio also claimed that an American tanker is anchored near the Wasp.

UN Hopes To Avert New Crisis

Acts On Threat By Congo To Call In Soviet Help

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—The U. N. command moved swiftly Monday to avert an international crisis stemming from the Congo's threat to call in Soviet troops if Belgian forces refuse to leave by Tuesday.

U. N. undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche met with the Congo Cabinet to discuss the three-day ultimatum handed over Sunday by Premier Patrice Lumumba in Stanleyville. Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga presided in Lumumba's absence.

Maj. Gen. Carl von Horn met with Bunche shortly after the Swedish soldier flew in from Palestine to take over command of U. N. forces.

Bunche also talked by telephone with U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in New York. Hammarskjold organized the U. N. force of troops from other African nations on Security Council orders. About 2,000 of an eventual force of possibly 6,000 have been flown in.

Belgium, which granted independence to the Congo June 30, refused to budge in the face of the mounting crisis.

"There will be no change in the Belgian government's attitude regarding our troops here as a result of the Congo government's ultimatum," a Belgian Embassy spokesman said.

He said the Belgian position was that Belgian troops must remain to guarantee the safety of whites until there were enough United Nations troops to take over this protection.

At the height of the tension in this capital, Joseph Yava, minister of economic affairs, resigned from the Cabinet. In a letter to his statements made by irresponsible leaders have brought about a wave of racial hatred."

Source Of Worry

As the hours of Lumumba's ultimatum ticked away, a major source of worry was the Congo's government's contention U.N. forces are unable to make the Belgian soldiers leave. That was the excuse for the threat to ask for Soviet intervention.

The Soviet Union is expected to press before a meeting of the Security Council in New York Tuesday for Belgian compliance with the Council resolution calling on Belgium to recall its soldiers.

Behind the Soviet move is the threat of Premier Nikita Khrushchev to take action if the U.N. forces cannot uphold the Belgians.

Congolese welcomed U.N. troops from Morocco and Tunisia as liberators and urged them to throw out the Belgians.

Almost a full battalion of troops from Ethiopia arrived by plane to join the forces from Morocco, Tunisia and Ghana.

Curious crowds of Congolese also greeted Von Horn, an old hand at this sort of command. He has been in charge of the U.N. truce commission trying to keep the peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

C-47 Crashes, Crew Jumps To Safety

VALDOSTA, Ga. (UPI)—A flaming C-47 crashed into a swamp shortly after takeoff from Moody Air Force Base Monday. Seven men parachuted to safety minutes earlier.

The only injury was to W. M. Morton of Valdosta, a civilian ground safety expert who broke his arm when he landed.

Actress Diane Varsi, 22, Ends Self-Imposed Exile

NORTH BENNINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Rebel actress Diane Varsi has ended her 16-month Vermont exile but not even her Vermont friends can say whether the 22-year-old blonde will return to Hollywood.

Miss Varsi and her son, Shawn, 3, Sunday left the North Bennington home where they have resided for the past year.

Her former landlady, Mrs. Alice Miller, said only that Miss Varsi and the youngster had left and would not say whether they were returning to Hollywood.

Diane, one of filmland's most promising young actresses, fled what she called Hollywood's "destructive" atmosphere in March of last year. She said she hoped to find "peace" for herself and her son in the quiet of the Vermont mountain country.

GOP Platform Clash Is Seen By Party Heads

CHICAGO (AP)—Republicans served notice Monday they will press a hard-hitting presidential campaign amid indications they first may have a clash of platform views within their own party.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton, GOP national chairman, and the chief architects of the 1960 platform talked about prospects a week before the opening of the party's nominating convention next Monday in Chicago's International Amphitheatre.

While they held a joint news conference, the on-the-scene signs pointed toward the nomination of Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president. Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, an early arrival, told a newsmen it looks like Nixon on the first ballot.

But across the street from the main convention hotel, the Conrad Hilton, backers of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York took over the Blackstone Theater and spelled out this sign on the marquee:

Pick a Winner. Draft Rockefeller Headquarters.

Rockefeller held a news conference upon arriving in Chicago, and urged that the Republican Party adopt a strong civil rights platform. It would include a ban on racial discrimination in any business operating under federal license, he said.

The New York governor also reiterated his refusal to consider a vice presidential nomination and draft for the top spot on the GOP ticket.

Even if Rockefeller does not make an active bid for the nomination, his partisans and the Nixon supporters may engage in a battle of ideas before the platform drafters.

Hamadeh Named Lebanon Speaker

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanon's new 99-man Parliament Monday elected Deputy Sabri Hamadeh its speaker. Hamadeh, leader of the rough Hermel district neighbors Syria's frontier, got 66 votes against 31 for his opponent, Adil Oseiran, candidate of President Camille Chamoun. Hamadeh was one of the leaders in the 1958 revolt against Chamoun. Lebanon is run now by a caretaker government under Premier Ahmed Daouk, who is expected to resign Wednesday.

VALDOSTA, Ga. (UPI)—A flaming C-47 crashed into a swamp shortly after takeoff from Moody Air Force Base Monday. Seven men parachuted to safety minutes earlier.

The only injury was to W. M. Morton of Valdosta, a civilian ground safety expert who broke his arm when he landed.

NORTH BENNINGTON, Vt. (UPI)—Rebel actress Diane Varsi has ended her 16-month Vermont exile but not even her Vermont friends can say whether the 22-year-old blonde will return to Hollywood.

Warns Alien Powers To Stay Away

Security Council Hears Cuba Claim Economic Aggression

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cuba accused the United States Monday of trying to pin a Communist label on Fidel Castro's revolutionary government. The United States denied the charge, but warned that no alien power would be permitted to establish a beachhead in the Western Hemisphere.

The exchange took place at a tense meeting of the 11-nation Security Council, called at the request of Cuba to air charges that the United States had invoked a policy of economic aggression against the Castro regime.

The council was expected to take the immediate heat out of the situation by approving an Argentine-Ecuadorian resolution tossing the dispute to the Organization of American States, and pointedly warning "all other states" to refrain from aggravating Cuban-U.S. relations.

Directed At Soviet

This was regarded as directed at the Soviet Union, which has served notice it will support Cuba in its dispute with the United States.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge were the principal protagonists in the council debate.

Roa, a slight, bawling mustached man in silver-rimmed glasses, told the council the United States provoked a Soviet warning of rocket attack when it revived the Monroe Doctrine in an attempt to dominate Latin America.

"Is it necessary," he asked, "in order to preserve hemispheric unity, democratic principles and continental security, to lower one's head like a submissive bull to the butcher in the abattoir?"

Lodge deplored use of such words by the Cuban representative, and evoked applause from the only partially filled spectators' gallery with words of friendship for the Cuban people.

He said no one has ever been enslaved by the United States and added: "The United States wants to be friends with Cuba and somehow, some day will be friends again."

Lodge Serves Notice

But Lodge served notice that the United States regarded the principles of the Monroe Doctrine—recently assailed by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as no longer valid—as "fully alive." He said they would be defended vigorously.

Before the meeting Roa indicated to reporters that Cuba would accept the Argentine-Ecuadorian resolution if it is approved by the majority of the council. This would rule out the possibility of a Soviet veto.

Roa said President Eisenhower had described the present leaders of Cuba as "traitors to the ideals of the revolution."

He declared that statements such as these, along with the U.S. action in reducing the Cuban sugar quota, has aroused fears of the Cuban people that there is "a carefully elaborated strategy in order to launch, at the proper time, armed aggression against Cuba."

No Notice Of Trial Is Given

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has given the United States no official notice of a trial date for pilot Francis Gary Powers and has not allowed embassy officials to interview him, the State Department said Monday.

The Soviet news agency Tass announced in Moscow today that Powers, pilot of the U2 reconnaissance plane downed in the Soviet Union, would be tried for espionage beginning Aug. 17.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said the U. S. Embassy in Moscow has repeatedly asked the Soviet Foreign Ministry to reply to a request for an interview.

"Our latest effort was July 11," White said. "On that day the embassy handed an aide memoir in Moscow repeating once more the request to talk to Powers and also that the Soviet grant visas for the attorneys retained by the Powers family." There was no reply, he said.

Wife Is Alive In Russia, Second Marriage Annuled

BALTIMORE (AP)—His eight-year marriage to an American woman annuled, Michael Smith is now waiting to find out if he can be reunited with his wife who turned up alive in White Russia. "I don't know what will happen," the 58-year-old Baltimore grocer said. "I don't know if Rachil wants to come to America or if she will be permitted to come."

Immigration authorities will get in touch with Soviet officials in an attempt to reunite the couple who were separated in 1946.

Smith, who was known as Michael Zawielski in White Russia, his wife and two sons were

Latest Weapons Fired For Cadets

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP)—Some of the Army's latest weapons were fired at the Aberdeen Proving Ground Monday for the benefit of more than 700 cadets of the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

The cadets included 250 presently taking two weeks of ROTC training here and another 475 from Ft. Belvoir, Va.

Among the weapons shown in the demonstration were the Little John, Corporal and Nike Hercules rockets and the 175-millimeter self-propelled gun. Also on display was the aluminum, air-transportable, armored personnel carrier.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The Milwaukee Road's Hiawatha passenger train smashed into a big semitrailer in suburban St. Paul Monday, injuring some 20 persons.

There were no reports of fatalities. Early hospital reports showed none of the injured in critical condition, although some were believed seriously injured.

Ten cars of the Chicago-bound train were derailed.

Every police, fire department and sheriff's vehicle in the area was summoned to aid a fleet of ambulances that rushed to the scene.

There was no immediate report on the number of passengers aboard.

Kennedy Moves To End Warring Among Demos

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy broke his vacation rest briefly Monday to start peace moves among warring Democratic factions.

He moved swiftly—less than 24 hours after his return from Los Angeles to his summer home here—to appoint an old friend, William F. Battle of Charlottesville, Va., as executive director of his campaign in Virginia in the coming election contest.

Battle, the son of former Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia, is a friend from World War II days. It was Battle's PT boat squadron which rescued Kennedy and survivors of his crew after their PT boat was rammed and sunk by a Japanese destroyer in the South Pacific in 1943.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, announced the appointment at a temporary headquarters. He said Battle is the first of 50 executive directors who will be named—one for each state.

Salinger said the appointment was made after consulting the Democratic State Committee of Virginia.

Salinger said Kennedy is "desirous" that Battle work closely with Sen. Harry F. Byrd and Gov. J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia.

Salinger declined comment when he was asked whether Kennedy plans to act as a peacemaker among clashing Democratic factions in New York.

Salinger wouldn't say whether New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner has been invited here to talk with Kennedy.

But he did say there will be a number of conferences here next week with various political leaders.

The New York dispute revolves around Carmine De Sapio, New York County political leader.

Wagner and De Sapio were reported at odds during the Los Angeles convention last week.

De Sapio's political control is under fire from another New York group, headed by former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Thomas K. Finletter, former secretary of the Air Force.

Charge Systems Face Anti-Trust Law Violations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department Monday accused two charge systems operating in Washington and Baltimore with violating the anti-trust law.

The two separate companies, Central Charge Service Inc. of Washington and Charge-It of Baltimore, were named in suits filed in U.S. District Courts here and in Baltimore.

The government claimed that nearly 2,000 retail stores using the systems in the two metropolitan areas are required to sign exclusive dealing contracts as a condition to participate in the central credit plans.

The courts were asked to cancel the exclusive dealing provisions charged in the complaints.

The government said the operation of the two plans involves an actual purchase of the consumer's debt at a specified discount, with the charge service company then taking over responsibility for billing and collection.

According to the suits, the systems have about 135,000 credit cards in circulation in the Washington area and some 100,000 in metropolitan Baltimore.

The complaints alleged that the two systems have suppressed competition by terminating or threatening to terminate membership of member merchants who participate in any other central credit plan.

Attorneys for the government said the general public would benefit from competition of central charge systems, "with respect to interest or service fees that are commonly imposed on consumer credit in excess of 30 days."

Costly Look

HONG KONG (AP)—A boy struck a match under a bed to search for a coin worth 10 cents. Authorities said the resulting fire left 15 persons homeless.

HELD—Mrs. Betty Jean Williamson, 30, is being held in New Brunswick, N. J., police headquarters, charged with murder in the death of her three-year-old son, Larry. Police said the boy's body was found in a box under a staircase in the Williamson's basement apartment.

Man Kills Three Children, Shoots Self In Head

BALTIMORE (AP)—A midnight shooting turned a neat five-room bungalow into a house of horror for a young mother who returned from work early today and found her three children and her husband dying of head wounds.

The multiple shooting was discovered by Mrs. Elizabeth Cooley, 32, when she arrived home from a northeast Baltimore restaurant where she has worked as a waitress for seven months to support the family.

Her husband, 40-year-old John D. Cooley Jr., an unemployed television engineer, was the last of the four to die. He had been found slumped in a chair on a sunporch of the home, a .32 caliber German automatic on the floor nearby.

Cooley died in a hospital hours after his two sons and his daughter had succumbed to bullet wounds in their blood heads.

The bungalow "looked like a slaughter house, with blood all over the place," reported Police Lt. Fred Gladstone.

Homicide detectives said a note was found in the home, presumably handwritten by the father. They would not disclose its contents.

Police were told Cooley had been despondent, Mrs. Cooley filed suit 10 days ago, asking custody of the three children, alimony and support. She charged Cooley with cruelty and with deserting her as of Jan. 11.

A police guard was stationed at the hospital with Cooley, who recently left his engineer's job with a Baltimore television station. He was a former Air Force pilot.

The two boys, John, 11, and Franklin, 9, each was shot twice in the temples. They died shortly after their mother walked into the tragedy. The girl, Elizabeth, 5, died about 12 hours later of a bullet wound.

Mrs. Anthony Fazio was among the first of the neighbors to be awakened by the screams of Mrs. Cooley.

"See what he did to my baby," she said Mrs. Cooley sobbed.

Mrs. Fazio said she had seen Cooley with his daughter on their porch about 5½ hours earlier. "He was holding her in his arms like you would rock a baby to sleep," she said.

Calif. Forest Fire Gets Out Of Hand

AZUSA, Calif. (UPI)—A stubborn fire in Angeles National Forest exploded out of hurriedly built containing lines Monday, racing over an additional 1,500 acres of watershed in less than an hour.

A call went out by U. S. Forest Service officials for another 600 fire fighters to join the 900 men already on the lines of the fire that started Sunday, apparently from a discarded cigarette.

With 3,000 acres charred, and the fire moving rapidly up San Gabriel Canyon about 10 miles north of here, officials ordered scattered summer cabins in the area evacuated immediately. They said they believed there were about 40 to 50 persons in the fire's path, but said they could be moved now without danger.

Anne Arundel Grand Jury To Get Rees Case

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Anne Arundel police announced Monday that the grand jury will be asked Wednesday to indict Melvin Davis Rees, Jr. for the 1957 murder of Mrs. Margaret V. Harold.

The 31-year-old Rees already is under federal indictment in Baltimore for the kidnap-murder of a Virginia mother and daughter.

Capt. Elmer F. Hagner said the indictment for the murder of Mrs. Harold is "just in case anything should go wrong with the federal prosecution to make sure we'd get him next."

Mrs. Harold was shot to death while sitting in a car with an Army sergeant near Gambrills. The bodies of Mrs. Carroll Jackson and her 5-year-old daughter were found in the same area last year.

The government charges Rees kidnapped them along with Jackson and another daughter as the family was driving home to Apple Grove, Va. The bodies of Jackson and the other girl were found near Fredericksburg, Va., and Rees faces similar kidnap - murder charges in Virginia also.

Rees is scheduled to be arraigned on the federal charges Friday.

He was arrested June 24 in West Memphis, Ark., where he was selling pianos.

Youths To Face Shooting Charges

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police Monday placed "malicious dynamiting" charges against two youths in connection with a series of bombings in East Baltimore last week.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and 20 years in prison.

Accused in the three bombings are Joseph F. Nixon, 20, a welder, and Charles E. Shiner, 19, a lathe operator.

Belgium Agrees To Put Troops Under UN Orders

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld said Monday Belgium has agreed to limit her troop activities in the Congo and to place Belgian forces partially under U.N. command.

The secretary-general told the Security Council that discussions on the withdrawal of Belgian forces are continuing. There was no indication as to whether he had asked for their withdrawal or whether he had received any word when this might be expected.

Hammarskjöld's report was his first to the 11-nation Council since it gave him a mandate early Thursday to set up a U.N. force and take other measures to restore order in the new African country. He called for an early council meeting to consider his report. Delegates said the Council would meet at 3 p.m., EDT, Tuesday.

He reported that the U.N. up to Sunday night had 3,500 troops in the Congo and that the build-up was continuing rapidly.

"The arrival of the troops of the United Nations force in Leopoldville," he said, "has already had a salutary effect and the growing recognition of its role as a force for the restoration of peace and order will contribute to its increasing effectiveness."

Contingents have arrived from Ethiopia, Ghana, Morocco and Tunisia, he said.

Hammarskjöld talked with Belgium's permanent U.N. representative, Walter Loidan, and later with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov.

Whether they discussed the question of Belgian troop withdrawals was not known. The Soviet Union has caused some concern among African diplomats have by threats to intervene unless Belgian forces get out under a 72-hour ultimatum delivered Sunday.

Hammarskjöld did not indicate whether or not the U.N. had directly asked Belgium to withdraw its troops, as the Congo government has demanded.

He said, however, the Belgian authorities have agreed to limit Belgian military intervention to the security needs of Belgian nationals. In all other matters, it was said, Belgian forces will abide by instructions of the U.N. commander.

Mag Director Flays Castro

HAVANA (UPI)—Miguel Angel Quevedo, director of "Bohemia," one of the most respected magazines in Cuba, Monday denounced Premier Fidel Castro for "betraying" the Cuban people "to the interests of international communism" and fled into exile.

Reliable diplomatic sources reported that Quevedo had sought political asylum in the Venezuelan Embassy. He was reported to be accompanied by his sister, Rosita.

His denunciation of Castro was a hard blow to the regime. "Bohemia" is considered the most important magazine in Cuba and one of the most widely read in Latin America.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our only daughter is engaged to a boob who doesn't know when to go home. Please tell me if I am right or wrong to complain. My husband sides with my daughter (against me) which makes it doubly hard.

Last Sunday afternoon Torrence came over at 4:30 — just in time for a chicken dinner. He left at 5:45 the following morning.

When I told my husband he'd have to talk to the young man he fired back, "What's wrong with two people enjoying each other's company? They're engaged. I think it's fine."

The daughter sat there grinning from ear to ear. She added a few words to the effect that I was old-fashioned and "out of it."

If I'm wrong please tell me so in the paper. If not — tell THEM—GANGED UP AGAINST

DEAR GANGED: Engaged or not, a young man who doesn't have enough sense to go home at a reasonable hour should be told. Thirteen hours is too blamed long!

Tell the love-birds to save a little of that fascinating conversation for after the wedding. They'll need it. The complaint I get from most wives who write is this "My husband doesn't talk to me. He comes home from work, grabs the paper and I can't get a word out of him."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm planning an October wedding. Two weeks ago I asked my favorite cousin Olivia to be my matron of honor. I was maid of honor at her wedding last year and we've always been the closest of friends. She was thrilled and accepted.

Last evening we were together and I noticed she'd put on quite a lot of weight. I mentioned it casually and she said, "You may as well know. I'm five months pregnant."

This means Olivia will be about eight months along when she stands up for me. I was dumbfounded. Do you think it was right of her to accept when she knew this? My fiancé is furious. Should I withdraw the invitation? I'd hate for anything to come between Olivia and me.

— OCTOBER BRIDE
DEAR OCTOBER: Olivia is married isn't she? Well, what's the disgrace? If you selected her to be your matron of honor because she's your dearest friend, the pregnancy doesn't make her any less dear, does it?

Today's maternity clothes are cleverly designed and attractive. It would be wrong to withdraw the invitation. Instead, offer to help her select a satin or taffeta balloon-style coat.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My girl friend and I are having an argument. I'm not going to tell you which side I'm on because you usually stick up for the girls and I want a fair shake. She promised to abide by your decision.

Question: Is it O.K. for girls to go without stockings and paint their toenails red, then wear the kind of shoes that expose the red toenails to public view? Just answer, "I am in favor of toenails" or "I am not in favor of toenails." Thank you.

— BARNEY
DEAR BARNEY: I hope you don't mind if I add a few words of my own. Thank you.

Rare, indeed, are toenails that are lovely enough to be on exhibition. And only the most exquisite legs, beautifully tanned, look good in the flesh.

In my opinion bare legs and exposed toenails are all right for the beach. In the city — no.

Confidential to NO DOPE: Sorry, but a black eye does not always mean a fight. Occasionally people DO walk into doors, believe it or not.

Bedford St. Paving Cost Cited By Long

Property owners in the recently resurfaced section of Bedford Street will pay only $1.47 a front foot and the low cost under the city's "50-50 payment plan" was cited by Street Commissioner John J. Long yesterday as an indication of what can be accomplished through cooperation.

Bedford Street is one of nine resurfacing projects included in the program. It extended from Henderson Avenue to the end of the old brick pavement.

The cost report was submitted to the Mayor and Council yesterday by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum, approved, ordered entered in land records of Allegany County and liens filed.

Long said it was a "fair division of costs" between the property owner and city. Streets and alleys are important to the modern city and there is no excuse for dirt or unimproved streets in Cumberland in these modern times, Long said. He added that present living conditions and transportation demand good, modern streets and alleys.

Nuzum said that prices on the Bedford Street project were close to the original estimate of $1.50 a front foot. The largest assessment against any property owner in the improved area is $121.26, he said. Total cost to all was $11,674.79.

Under the old city street improvement plan, the property owner would have paid 100 per cent of the cost.

In another action affecting streets and alleys yesterday, council approved an ordinance for closing a 16-foot unnamed alley which runs 216 feet from Massachusetts Avenue to Utah Avenue.

Commissioners named to determine any damages inflicted by the closing are Howard M. Spiker, David Goodfellow and James Reinhart, local realtors.

Methodist Men Plan Trip

Grace Methodist Church Men's Bible Class will take its annual trip Sunday.

The class will leave at 7 a. m. and go to Blackwater Falls. Davis members will attend the Men's Bible Class of Davis Methodist Church and have dinner at Warden's Hotel. Later they will visit the falls and lodge.

On the return trip, the group will stop at Deep Creek Lake. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the class. Deadline for sales is Wednesday night.

Battle Against Beetles Apparently Won

The battle against the Japanese beetle, for years one of the major problems of gardeners in this area, apparently has been won, according to Joseph M. Steger, Allegany County farm agent.

The beetle, which showed a particular liking for rose and grape plantings, now is reported only in "patches," Steger said. He cautioned however that sprays should continue to be used, explaining that the insect appeared to have been defeated several years ago, only to reappear in increasing numbers.

Steger said the Japanese beetle is being replaced by the bagworm as a menace to gardeners.

The bagworm, he explained, is reported in practically every section of the county, with its cocoon-like bag particularly noticeable on evergreens.

The bagworm is a voracious feeder and shows a particular fondness for arborvitae and juniper. While spraying is recommended, Steger said it is too late in the year to do anything more than try and halt the spread of the worm.

For the best effect against the pest, spraying must be done by early June. Hand-picking of the bags in the late summer or early fall also is recommended, Steger said.

The county farm agent also said a serious livestock pest, the face fly, is appearing in this section of the state. The fly annoys beef and dairy cattle, horses and sheep by collecting around the eyes, nose and mouth openings. While it does not bite, Steger said it collects in such large numbers as to cause irritation and thereby affects growth and production.

The face fly first was reported in adjoining states last year, and now has been reported from Garrett County eastward to Harford and south to Prince Georges County.

Mr., Mrs. C. J. Freeland To Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Freeland, of 238 Humbird Street, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on July 30.

The celebration will start with a mass of thanksgiving, celebrated by the son, Rev. Philip Freeland, O.F.M. Cap., pastor of St. Alphonsus Church, Wheeling, W. Va. It will be at 11 o'clock in St. Mary's Church.

Social Chart

Mapleside Homemakers will meet in Grove 1 at the Constitution Park, Thursday, at noon. Members are to bring a covered dish and their own place setting.

A reception will be held at the VFW club, 205 Union Street, from 4 until 8 p. m. Friends are welcome to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeland were married August 2, 1910, in St. Peter and Paul Church, Cumberland, with Rev. Richard Deo, O.F.M. Cap., officiating. The attendants were Elizabeth Shields and John Leasure.

Mrs. Freeland is the former Miss Elizabeth M. Leisinger, daughter of the late William and Ella (Rosen) Leisinger. Mr. Freeland is the son of the late Henry and Joan (Hildebrand) Freeland.

The couple has lived in Cumberland all their married life. Mr. Freeland was employed by the Potomac Edison Company until his retirement in 1946.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeland are the parents of eight children, the late Joseph M. Freeland; Rev. Philip Freeland, O.F.M. Cap., who was one time a News carrier; Mrs. Nick Insigna, Baltimore; Paul E. Freeland, Mrs. Charles Grimes, Mrs. Sheldon C. Post, city; C. Philip Freeland, Elm Grove, Wis.; and Mrs. John E. Long, Hales Corner, Wis. They have nine grandchildren.

A master point game will be played by the Western Maryland Bridge Association Thursday evening at the Cumberland Country Club beginning at 8 o'clock.

Grace Methodist Church Men's Bible Class will make its annual trip July 24.

The group will leave here at 7 a. m., going to Blackwater Falls and will attend the men's Bible class at the Methodist church in Davis.

Dinner will be at Warden's Hotel, after which the group is to make a visit to the falls and lodge. On the way back, a stop will be made at Deep Creek Lake.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the class. Sales will close tomorrow night.

The happiest fashion compromise of the year is the short skirt that isn't quite. Combining all the freedom-loving points of culottes and Bermuda-length shorts — with the graceful swirl of Scotch kilts, this divided skirt could be the answer to a co-ed's prayer for campus comfort plus, wherever trousers are banned. Wear it knee-length with knee-high bright wool socks, matched to your favorite pullover sweaters and cardigans.

Here's a handy item for your back porch or hallway — an over-shoe rack which holds up to six pairs of dirty, wet boots to drip safely into a container, not on your clean floor. The 8x24 inch rack can be scrubbed with suds to remove accumulated mud.

Officers were elected and plans for the next reunion were formulated at the 10th anniversary of Ridgeley High School, class of 1950, which was held in the form of a dinner and dance Saturday. It was at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

Have Happy Vacation, Make Lists

Vacation means a time of rest and relaxation. This release from the usual routine should bring pleasures instead of anxieties. This means "play it safe" and take every precaution against accident, says Joanne Reitz, extension home management specialist at the University of Maryland.

If you're driving get the car checked to be sure it's in top notch condition. En route, take it easy and drive at a moderate speed — many roads will be unfamiliar and traffic heavy. Watch the signs — they're for your protection and not road decorations.

Be careful about pulling off the road for that magnificent view or to spread your lunch. It's best to pull completely off the road and signal those drivers behind you. Don't follow the car ahead too closely. Slamming brakes too quickly can upset all your careful packing of luggage and children.

Heavy loads slow acceleration and make quick maneuvering dangerous. Be careful in pulling out of line and don't try to pass more than one car at a time.

If you're staying at home; about half of the deaths in home accidents are caused by falls. If you're a do-it-yourself type, watch electric switches and be sure they're off when you're making repairs. Much of our power equipment requires handling with care and respect.

The misuse of simple tools around the house and in the tool shed can easily turn vacation time into lost time.

If you go in the water you're playing it smart to stay within reach of help when swimming. Don't dive unless you know what's below the surface. Keep a careful eye on children — they can quickly wade in too deep.

By all means, observe safety rules with boats and boating. Avoid overloading, fancy maneuvering and moving about from seat to seat.

Blistered bodies add no holiday bliss, so watch the sun, time of exposure, and protect yourself.

Make vacation time a pleasure time with common sense and safety measures.

You can help the family make an easy take-off for vacation fun if you work from a plan. You will need two check lists: things to do in advance of vacation time, and last minute duties.

In advance, leave a note for the milkman telling him when you leave and return. Tell your news boy how long to discontinue your paper.

It's important that some one knows where and how to reach you at all times. Give the information in writing and telephone numbers if possible. Leave a key to your safety deposit box with a responsible person.

Use travelers checks for an easy way to handle finances on a trip. See that members of the family have their individual drivers licenses. It's important that you have your car ownership card if you plan to drive into Canada.

In case of accident, have the person's name you wished called easily accessible on person or in car. Identification cards for each member of the family are important with names, addresses, telephone numbers, and blood types plainly written.

Book Club Hears Six Reviews

Six book reviews were given at the meeting of the Mapleside Reading Club, which met at the home of Mrs. Joseph Kuhlman, Williams Street. A routine report was given by Mrs. Wesley Taylor.

The hostess reviewed the book, "The Answer Is God," by Elsie Miller Davis. She explained it is the life story of Roy and Dale Rogers, famous cowboy stars.

"Beyond this Place," by A. J. Cronin was reviewed by Mrs. Boyd Hosier. It is the story of a young man's father, who is sentenced to prison for a crime he did not commit.

"Mission to Borneo," a condensed story taken from "The Spiral Road" by Jan De Hartog, is about a young doctor's first assignment and was reviewed by Mrs. Glenn Diehl. The book, "Folk Medicine" by D. C. Jarvis, M.D., telling of the remedies of the people of Vermont, was given by Mrs. Jennie Heick, who is a newcomer to the club. Mrs. Taylor reviewed "The Bride of Pilate," by Esther Kellner, which she pointed out is an old story, but may be associated with events happening today. Mrs. Forrest Snider added some comments on the book, "The Giant Joshua" which was reviewed last month.

It was decided not to meet in August. The next session will be held September 13, the place to be decided later.

Others attending were Mrs. Ruth Taschenberger, Mrs. Erlamon Kovac, Mrs. Adam Frost and two new members, Mrs. Ruth Jewell and Mrs. Edna White.

Small children really enjoy being mama's little helpers. It's a shame to deprive them of the feeling of accomplishment they get from "helping" with housework.

So give your helpers a small pail or bowl of warm soap or detergent suds, some sponges or soft cloths, and let them wash table tops and chairs, or a portion of the back porch, or a section of woodwork.

Both little boys and little girls have lots of fun scrubbing away — and who knows, perhaps they'll even wash away a little dirt!

Mr., Mrs. T. L. McCusker Mark 53rd Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. McCusker observed their 53rd wedding anniversary quietly at their home, Little Orleans, Sunday, without any formal celebration. Both are reported in "Alright" health and able to be around.

The former Miss Cecelia Ashkettle, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Ashkettle, Little Orleans, became the bride of Mr. McCusker, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abner McCusker, Hancock, July 17, 1907. The wedding ceremony was solemnized in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Little Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. McCusker are the parents of six children, Bernard L. McCusker, Mrs. Henry Hofs, Mrs. McCusker, Mrs. Leo Wigfield, Hagerstown; Donald McCusker, Little Orleans; and Mrs. Wilber George, Cumberland. They have 35 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

A retired farmer, Mr. McCusker continues to do his own gardening, while Mrs. McCusker cares for her house. They also can all their own food.

Get Opposing Ice Milk Views

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ice milk was alternately described Monday night as a frozen dairy product that could boost the state's economy and one that could put the skids under Maryland ice cream manufacturers.

The opposing views were expressed at a hearing by the Legislative Council's Milk Control Committee on a proposal to legalize the sale of ice milk in Maryland.

The bill originally was introduced in the 1959 General Assembly. It was referred to the council when the House of Delegates rejected it after long debate.

Ice milk supporters boosted it as a low-fat, low-calorie product that will appeal to a "plus" market — persons not already buying ice cream.

They denied it would be offered as a cheap product or a substitute to ice cream, and they argued Maryland should legalize it to meet competition from all surrounding states, where it is sold.

Opponents, on the other hand,

VFW Election Set Tonight

A junior vice commander and trustee will be elected this evening when members of Henry Hart Post 1411, VFW, meet at 8 o'clock in the post home.

Due to illness, Commander Raymond Reynolds was forced to resign that post and Vernon Crabbe took over the top office. William Webb, junior vice commander, became senior vice commander leaving the junior post vacant.

Roy Hawkins has been named assistant adjutant and quartermaster of the post here.

First South Fork Dam Is Completed

The first of 23 flood control dams on tributaries of the South Fork of the South Branch has been completed and accepted by the administrative officer of the West Virginia Soil Conservation Service.

H. D. McVey, Morgantown, made the final inspection over the weekend at Dam 27 on Dry Run of South Fork in Pendleton County.

The series of 23 dams will extend along the South Fork into Moorefield, an area hit by devastating floods in past years.

The initial project completed in the $4,250,000 program, largest Soil Conservation Service flood control system in the East, was handled by the contracting firm of Buckley-Legge, Inc., Winchester.

The dam cost $127,218 and involved the excavation of 150,000 cubic yards of earth, and a year's work.

The Dry Run Dam is 64 feet high and will have a permanent pool of water covering three acres.

Lester B. Frank, Harrisonburg, contractor, will have finished by August the end of Dam 13 on Hawse Run, McVey said.

This is larger than the Dry Run and was the first to get under construction. The Hawse Run Dam will cost $233,338 and will be 67 feet high and have a permanent pool of eight acres.

Forty-eight acres of land had to be cleared for the larger one, McVey said. There are 30,000 yards of excavation, 144,000 cubic yards of earthen fill and 111 yards of concrete involved in it.

Also under construction are Dams 10 and 12, both in Pendleton County. The work on Dam 10 on Stony Run of South Fork is being done by Bennie Snyder, White Sulphur Springs contractor for $118,558.

Dam 12, on Detimer Run, is being handled by E. D. Plummer of Chambersburg for $120,103.

The Schoonover Construction Company of Charleston, W. Va., last week was awarded two dam contracts.

Schoonover was low bidder on Dam 11 located on Road Run and Dam 16, on Miller Run. His bid on Dam 11 was $113,261 and on Dam 16, $86,818.

Included in the bidding on Dam 11 was the George F. Hazelwood Company of Cumberland and Elvin Riggelman of Moorefield. Riggelman and Frank also bid on the Dam 16.

Dam 11 will cover 2.92 square miles, have permanent pool of six acres and a flood pool of 26 acres. The dam will be 69 feet high and will call for 192,000 cubic yards of earth fill.

Dam 16 will cover a drainage area of 3.78 square miles, will be 54 feet high, and will involve a 120,000-cubic yard fill. Its permanent pool will be 14 acres and a flood pool of 49 acres.

The overall project, is sponsored locally by the Town of Moorefield, and the County Commissioners of Hardy and Pendleton counties in conjunction with the SCS.

Driver Freed In Collision With Cruiser

William R. Hout, 18, of Star Route, Flintstone, the driver of a car involved in the collision with a City Police cruiser July 11, yesterday was found not guilty of reckless driving.

The Hout youth was found not guilty by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt at a hearing yesterday morning in Trial Magistrate Court.

The accident occurred July 11 at 6:30 a.m. at the intersection of Baltimore and Liberty Streets and involved the car operated by the Hout youth and the cruiser operated by Officer James Stewart.

The cruiser was traveling on North Liberty Street and pulled onto Baltimore Street when it was hit by the Hout vehicle. Three witnesses testified yesterday the cruiser pulled in front of the Hout car.

Officer Richard L. Malers said traffic was backed up from the Western Maryland Railway crossing past Centre Street when Officer Stewart pulled out from Liberty Street. Hout was in the left lane of traffic when he hit the police car.

The Hout youth was represented by Gorman E. Getty, local attorney, and Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, represented the state.

ardous." Delegate Estel C. Kelley was in the opinion that some sections of Route 36 need attention sooner than others. All were in agreement as to the priority of the various projects and all were in agreement that more funds will be needed in the improvement of secondary roads.

Will Notify SRC

James G. Stevenson, clerk to the Board of Commissioners, was instructed to submit a letter to the SRC indicating the priorities as listed at yesterday's meeting. Also in attendance at the meeting was Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the Board of Commissioners.

Last April three representatives of the SRC met with the delegates and commissioners to go over the secondary roads program.

Attending from the SRC were Robert J. Hizick, director of planning and programming; David H. Fisher, chief administrative director, and John Bushby, district engineer.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Talk about a of the early days of Christianity lucky honeymooners! Lang Jeffries who went with Rhonda Fleming to Europe because it was their first chance at a honeymoon and who fully intended to return in a few weeks, now winds up as his bride's co-star in "Revolt of the Slaves."

Rhonda was so excited that she might have been speaking from a Sputnik when she called from Madrid the news, "Raymond Moffa, our producer had been looking far and wide for the male lead, testing some of the most important actors in Europe," she said. "Then, he met Lang—said he was just what he was looking for, and now we will be together all these months of shooting in Spain."

"Revolt of the Slaves" is the religious spectacle based on "Fabiola," Cardinal Wiseman's novel

Hear right from headquarters that the new "Mutiny on the Bounty" is by no means a remake of the old picture which co-starred Clark Gable and Charles Laughton. According to Sir Carol Reed, the director, after he conferred with Marlon Brando recently in London, the new picture will actually be based on another North-Hall tale.

This is "The Story of Pitcairn Island," and the "Mutiny on the Bounty" will only be a single incident that will be told in flashback. The main story will reveal what happens to the mutineers.

Neither Aaron Rosenberg, the producer, nor Sir Carol have any restrictions on budget. In other words, this is going to be a biggie!

Who can blame Richard Burton for shelling even Brigitte Bardot and Oscar-winning Simone Signoret in favor of stepping into the co-starring role opposite Julie Andrews in "Camelot"? Need I remind you that "Camelot" is the new musical written by Frederick Loewe and Alan J. Lerner whose "My Fair Lady" was Broadway's biggest musical hit in years.

Burton reports in Toronto, Canada, in September to start rehearsals on what will be the most eagerly awaited Broadway opening of the season in November.

Author William Kelley, who sold Philip A. Waxman a novel called "Geminis" for a movie, is back from Rome, Kelley, who was formerly West Coast editor for Doubleday, went there to write Linda Christian's life story, but he and Linda couldn't see eye to eye so he walked out on the job.

He no more than hit town than he was given another assignment by Joe Pasternak to gather some material for a novel which Joe has had in his mind for a long time. Kelley also will help Phil Waxman with "Geminis" which is destined to be a Columbia movie. (Copyright 1960)

Woman Hurt Near Bedford

One person was hospitalized and $2,000 property damage caused in a two-vehicle accident Sunday in nearby Bedford County.

Reported in "fair" condition at Bedford County Memorial Hospital is Mrs. Mary Burkeville, 75, of Alum Bank, Pa. She sustained fractured ribs, bruised chest, lacerations of her right hand and an ankle injury.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford said the accident occurred at 10:45 a. m. on a state route in Alum Bank and involved cars being operated by Edward Oldham, 31, and Clarence J. Burkeville, 75, both of Alum Bank. Police said Oldham was traveling south on the highway as Burkeville was attempting to make a left turn into his private driveway. Police said Oldham observed Burkeville's car, applied his brakes, but skidded into the car.

Catherine Burkeville, 49, daughter of the injured woman, sustained minor injuries in the crash. She was treated and released from the Bedford Hospital.

Widows Prolong War Pensions

Leaving out the obviously permanent branches, which branch of the United States government is assured of the longest life? Let the dove of peace descend, and spread his wings forever over a fortunate world, and the Veterans Agency will still go on.

At least that's what the record indicates. The last pension check for the Revolutionary War was written in 1911, some 130 years after Cornwallis' surrender. Soldiers in the war were paid in scrip, which they had mostly disposed of for a few cents on the dollar before Congress finally paid it off. The last pension check for the War of 1812 was paid in 1946.

This seems incredible. A teenager fighting in one of those wars would have reached the age of 150 or thereabouts by the cutoff date. A man still collecting his pension then would probably have had to be a soldier before he was born.

The explanation is simple — the last checks didn't go to men, but to women. No man in the records of the agency has lived to be 150. But there's no law to prevent a 20-year-old woman from marrying a 90-year-old veteran and continuing to collect a widow's pension for 60 years more.

So it would take more than permanent peace to bring about an early dissolution of the Veterans Agency. Theoretically, of course, Congress could defy the veterans' lobby and exclude widows from pension benefits after a certain date — say the year 2010 for World War II.

It might happen. But it's more likely that men will live to be 150.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
Is Oratory Dead?

One thing about the Democratic Convention: oratory seems to be dead. Not one speaker showered the spectators with wit, humor, pathos, flights of language or flights of thought. There was no William Jennings Bryan; there was no Bourke Cochran. The silver tongues had become base metal.

It was anticipated that Senator Frank Church would deliver such a keynote speech as would make the rafters ring. Nothing rang. Also there were no rafters. Perhaps the microphones kill the voice. Edmund Burke had no microphone, yet his oratory lives forever; Patrick Henry spoke without a television audience; Daniel Webster needed no director to tell him when to come on and go off. Senator Church employed polished gestures, but not convincing ones. All this throwing arms up above the head, a sort of political symbol which everybody seems to use these days, looks ridiculous on television. I notice prize fighters do it too.

Jack O'Brian, the T.V. expert, makes the point that Senator Church's speech was too long. No speech is too long or too short. It is either gripping, startling, sustained, noble, interesting, exciting or it is dull. The speeches were dull. A two minute speech can be dull; a two hour speech could be brilliant and charming.

The microphone does something to the female voice that is horrendous. That is not so with professional actresses. When they speak their parts, they sound as they should. But when a female political orator rises to the microphone, her voice goes into octaves to which the human ear is unaccustomed. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has had enormous experience as a speaker. In fact, if one were to have to give her a professional designation, it would have to be "speaker." Yet, when she rose to second Adlai Stevenson, despite the fact that she was not a delegate, her voice, as it came over television, was forced and noisy. When otherwise occupied, Mrs. Roosevelt's voice seems normal. No dulcet tones hers, to charm the cigar smoking delegates. She sounded like an angry mamma scolding a family of juvenile delinquents.

The nominators and seconders were astonishing. The shortest of them was Sam Rayburn who had his say and let it go at that. He made no pretensions at oratory. Some of the others felt that they had to reach stentorian climaxes with each phrase. I should imagine that the most ridiculous clap-trappy sort of street corner harangue was delivered by Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota when he was engaged in attempting to resurrect the dead. His nomination of Adlai Stevenson, spoken not to the delegates but to the motley crew that worked its way into the convention hall for a Blitz which died aborning, lacked both form and content. It was hysterical. He does much better in the halls of Congress.

If the conventions are going to permit television to expose them, they will have to adopt new devices. Oratory is a glorious art. It is designed to make words act psychologically as music. The true orator must have language, voice and gestures — a combination that eats into the mind and soul of a listener. Those who may have had an opportunity to hear William Jennings Bryan speak his "Cross of Gold" speech, or Orson Welles do the Marc Antony speech over Caesar's body can have a measure of oratory.

Some politicians believe that they can touch the human soul or wash the mind by shouting, getting red in the face and swinging their arms. The microphone resists shouting; television pales the face and arm-swinging is cut out of the picture. What comes over is a big, open mouth over an extended chin and a voice that is metallic and tenorish. No orator was ever a tenor.

Thus far I have referred only to form. As for content, what can be said? Even the commentators, who speak English professionally every day, had to admit that Governor Collins of Florida spoke a more correct English, better pronounced than had been heard in conventions in many years. Some pronunciations were hardly understandable and the prompter machine, which is a device of the devil, sometimes fouled up a speaker. Did Demosthenes require a prompter machine to tell him what to do? Or did Cicero? What weeklings machines have made us. We shall not only lose our legs; we shall have voices like chickadees.

'Now Loud And Clear—I Love Kennedy'

Kennedy-Johnson Combination Was Remarkable

LOS ANGELES

The voluntary combination of the two biggest men in the Democratic party, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, was a remarkable event, which has astonished and bewildered a great many people. The true story deserves to be told.

To begin at the beginning, Kennedy telephoned Johnson before breakfast on the day after he received the Presidential nomination. He inquired whether he could call on his defeated rival a little later. In the resulting Gaston-Alphonse argument, Kennedy won. It was agreed that he would go to the Johnson suite in the Biltmore as soon as breakfast was out of the way.

Johnson hastily convened his inner circle — his wife, his campaign manager, John Connally, his chief Senate aide, Robert Baker, and one or two more. Their discussion of the course he should follow was inconclusive; and so, indeed, was the first talk with Kennedy which followed shortly thereafter.

At this morning's meeting, Kennedy went through the motions of consulting Johnson about the Vice Presidential nomination, with the real purpose of finding out whether Johnson would accept. He got Johnson's characteristic advice, to "go back and talk to the other party leaders, and choose whichever man you think is biggest and best for the country." He also got a very clear idea — for Johnson was quite frank about it — that Johnson himself was interested.

Kennedy then returned to his own suite to follow Johnson's advice. He asked leaders right across the spectrum, from Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania to Walter Reuther, whether the Vice Presidency ought to be offered to Johnson. Most of them, reportedly including even Reuther, agreed that the offer ought to be made.

Perhaps some different advice would have been given if Kennedy had also indicated that Johnson might be expected to accept the offer. But in most cases, he did not do so. He justifiably believed that these others ought to be asked to resolve the problem on just the same terms on which he had resolved it himself. And he wanted to be advised to do what he already in fact intended to do.

When the process of consultation was completed, Kennedy's formal offer was transmitted to Johnson. In the Johnson suite, meanwhile, consultation and debate had also been in progress. At the outset almost all the leaders, even including Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, were against Johnson's accepting the Vice Presidency.

As the morning wore on, Speaker Rayburn and the moderates came round to the idea, The Southern ultras, whose behavior pattern so closely resembles the Northern extreme liberal pattern, always remained unreconciled. They wanted just what the Northern liberals apparently wanted — Johnson passed over, still Majority Leader of the Senate, smarting from his convention wounds, and leading the South in war against the North. In Johnson's mind, in contrast, the need to reconcile and to unite bulked larger and larger as the discussion continued. Even so, Lyndon Johnson's mind was not fully made up when the formal Kennedy offer was received. It was not until sometime after luncheon that he decided, firmly and finally, where his duty lay.

Johnson's message to Kennedy that he would accept the Vice Presidency caused an explosion of excitement in the Kennedy suite. Kennedy had been almost alone in expecting Johnson's acceptance. A good many who had approved the offer as a necessary gesture, were both surprised and dismayed by the result.

When the word was passed to the state leaders, there was an angry talk of nominating another candidate in the Michigan and some other like-minded delegations. Johnson had said to Kennedy that he was not "seeking" the Vice Presidency. It seemed unlikely, at first, that Kennedy would be able to repress the drive to put up an opponent to Johnson. Hence it was necessary to send Robert Kennedy to the Johnson suite, to ask whether Johnson was still willing to stand for the Vice Presidency, even against opposition.

The answer, that Johnson was indeed willing, was through Speaker Rayburn after a fairly emotional moment of misunderstanding of the nature of the younger Kennedy's mission. This answer, that Johnson was ready to fight for the nomination if need be, was then passed on by Robert Kennedy to the gaggle of the leaders in the Kennedy suite. This isolated fragment of the long story, revealed by one of those present, gave rise to the wholly misleading report that Johnson had asked for and insisted on the nomination.

The great moment of Kennedy's announcement of his expected running mate, soon followed the Robert Kennedy-Sam Rayburn exchange. It was a moment rich in ironies. Not only were the Northern liberals and Southern ultras the two groups that were simultaneously utterly displeased. By the KENNEDY-JOHNSON—2 same token, the announcement also knocked into two simultaneous cocked hats the North-centered campaign strategy already prepared by Kennedy's staff, and the strategy based on a strong appeal to the South already prepared by Vice-President Richard M. Nixon.

Kennedy's staff members were visibly upset to find their careful plans in sudden need of revision, but Kennedy himself was far from upset. No doubt, he had been influenced by such factors as the temptation to block Nixon's known strategy. Mainly, however, he had been influenced by his conviction that Lyndon Johnson was simply too large in human and in political stature, to be lightly passed over.

For these reasons, as this reporter revealed at the time on the highest authority, Kennedy had actually made up his mind to offer the Vice Presidency to Johnson several days before he won the Presidential nomination for himself. It was a big man's decision.

Labor Unions Used Strong Tactics Helping Kennedy Get Nomination

By Drew Pearson

cracking the whip over labor's own friends.

Humphrey No Pushover

Walter Reuther, for instance, served an ultimatum on Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota the week before the convention that he must come out for Kennedy by noon Sunday.

Reuther and Humphrey are old friends. They have worked together in previous conventions to promote civil rights. However, Humphrey is not a man you can push around. He did not meet the Reuther deadline — despite the fact that it was intimated he would get no labor support for his Minnesota re-election.

Reuther extended the deadline. He gave Humphrey until noon Monday to come out for Kennedy. Again the Senator from Minnesota refused. He let the deadline pass. Finally, at noon Tuesday, he announced for Adlai Stevenson.

Meanwhile his old friend and schoolmate, Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota, was urging him to come out for Kennedy in order to enhance his, Freeman's chances of being Kennedy's Vice President. Humphrey declared for Freeman for Vice President but refused to back Kennedy because of the Reuther ultimatum.

Governor Freeman and Senator Humphrey have been political allies for years. They have built the Democratic Party up from the labor party grass roots in Minnesota. Freeman began to get sore, kept urging Humphrey to declare. Finally Humphrey told him:

"If you get a commitment from Kennedy that you will be his Vice President, then I'll declare for Kennedy."

Freeman never got the written commitment and Humphrey never declared. And at a closed-door 3 a. m. Minnesota caucus, Governor Freeman left his place near the speaker's stand and walked past his old schoolmate without saying a word.

Pressure By Unions

Meanwhile other labor unions had been turning on the heat. United Steel Workers headquarters in Pittsburgh sent word to Earl Bester, regional union executive in Duluth, to come out for Kennedy. Bester had been for Stevenson. But he made a speech inside the Minnesota delegation, switching to Kennedy.

Probably he did not know that Papa Joe Kennedy had picked up the tab for an ornate Hollywood party given by Singer Phil Regan for Dave McDonald, head of the United Steel Workers.

When the Kennedy forces wanted Alaska to yield to Massachusetts in order to nominate Kennedy, the vote inside the Alaskan delegation stood 9 to 8. A change of one vote was needed to permit an early nominating speech for Kennedy. So a COPE (Committee On Political Education) campaign contribution of $3,000 was dangled before Congressman Ralph Rivers. Questioned by this column, Rivers was frank.

"I understand the contribution has been given to someone to deliver to me," he said, "but I haven't received it yet."

Despite the contribution he did not switch his vote to Kennedy, though on subsequent balloting he did.

Union pressure on Western delegates who are members of labor unions was intense. Bob Lenaghan of the AFL-CIO in Pocatello, Idaho, was urged to switch his vote to Kennedy. He did. Ben Gilbert of the AFL in Alameda County was pressured by Andy Biemiller, lobbying expert for the AFL-CIO. Gilbert said "no."

Senator Symington's headquarters found a California delegate, Thelma Thomas, Los Angeles director of COPE, crying in her hotel room because, reportedly, her job had been threatened unless she voted for Kennedy. The ultimatum was reported to have been delivered by Bill Bassett of the Los Angeles Labor Council. Bassett denied this.

"I have never threatened anyone," Bassett told my associate, Jack Anderson. He admitted, however, that he had talked to Miss Thomas.

"What did you say to her?" Anderson asked.

"I asked her to vote for Kennedy," Bassett frankly admitted. But added: "She is a free delegate to the convention."

"If she doesn't vote for Kennedy does she lose her job?"

"No, of course not," replied Bassett. "What are you trying to do, coerce me?"

"No, we are trying to find out whether you have been doing any coercing," Anderson replied.

"Ground Fog"

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK

Some of the "ground fog" that has closed down on the CAB, obscuring among other things staff and commission thinking, may be lifting.

While it takes more than one swallow to herald a change from winter to spring, a just-delivered speech by Alan S. Boyd, a new member of the CAB, points to a lifting of the weather ceiling at this important agency.

The CAB is one of nine alphabetical bureaus with life and death power over the industry it regulates. Many of its actions—or more correctly its failure to act in time—have given rise to public impression that the CAB doesn't care too much about the health of the vital air line industry.

So, it is interesting and—well, hope-significant for a board member to say:

"Our (the CAB's) major effort should be to foresee problems and outline solutions . . . before they happen, rather than running along behind and trying to catch up with the problem to see which way it turns."

This indicates a radical change from the former policy that took the CAB more than four years to reach a decision on a general fare increase, and more than two years with still no ruling on elimination of uneconomic stations.

Here are some more significant quotes from Mr. Boyd's speech, which unfortunately got lost in the shuffle of his party's convention—he is a Florida Democrat.

"The advent of large jet aircraft will dictate some realignment of route patterns. The trunk carriers cannot afford to install the expensive ground equipment support facilities and undergo the cost of regular landings and take-offs at any airport to pick up or discharge two, three, four or five passengers."

This could mean a change in a major policy of the board—multiple routes—a policy which is responsible for one of the industry's major financial headaches.

On the local service carriers, Mr. Boyd said:

"With a top limit approaching on subsidy availability and expenses rising, it will probably be necessary to cut more small communities off from the service they are now receiving and simultaneously put local service carriers into profitable markets, which hopefully the trunks will want to leave at the same time."

coupled with the right equipment, the right passenger fare and cargo rate levels, and increased carriage of mail, it should be possible to get the local service carriers off subsidy and on a self-supporting basis . . .

"The minimum cost of maintaining a station facility for local service carriers is in the neighborhood of $25,000 per annum. The board has adopted a 'use it or lose it' policy of a minimum of five passengers a day. "The revenue from five passengers does not begin to cover the costs of operating the station facility when that is lumped on top of operating the aircraft . . . the board is going to have to adopt more stringent standards in the future . . .

"We are especially anxious to see the carriers reach into the enormous volume of traffic which moves in private automobile transportation."

In winding up his talk, Mr. Boyd said:

"The board must take whatever steps are necessary to provide the air carriers with an opportunity for profitable, stable operations."

All this is fine, but the $64 question is how to get the CAB staff to act accordingly. The staff is the bottleneck—as it is in practically every one of the alphabetical bureaus.

Legion Junior Baseball Series Opens Here July 30th

Cumberland Will Host Frederick

Best-Of-Three Series Winner
To College Park

Francis Scott Key Post No. 11, of Frederick, and Fort Cumberland, will engage in a best-of-three series here July 30-31, to determine Western Maryland's representative in the Maryland Department, American Legion tournament at College Park, August 4, 5, 6 and 7, local Legion officials were informed last evening.

A doubleheader is scheduled for Saturday, July 30, commencing at 1 p.m., and if a third game is necessary it will be staged on the afternoon of Sunday, July 31.

Frederick has won the championship of District No. 2 for the past five years, finishing on top each season in the Western Maryland District League which also includes Morris Frock Post of Hagerstown, Westminster and Thurmont. The Francis Scott Post tossers have a 5-0 record in the league this season with one game remaining on its schedule.

Tom Dorsey is the pitching ace of the Frederick nine with a 3-0 record. Last season he was 7-0.

Fort Cumberland Post's team, with ten holdovers from last season, and five new additions, will come from clubs now playing in the High School Rec Baseball League. George Ziegler is manager and Frank Zahradka is the coach. Ted Femi is also assisting the local team.

Joe Price is manager of the Frederick team.

Local Legion officials last evening stated that either Penn Avenue Field or Stitzer Field will be sought for the Frederick-Cumberland series here.

Fort Cumberland Post's tossers were knocked out of the running last season by Frederick which won a twin bill from the locals at Frederick, 7-2 and 13-9. Unbeaten Greenbelt was the Maryland Department's champion in 1959.

Colts Defeat Franklin, 9-5

Barton To Battle
Westernport Today

Klondyke's Colts trimmed Franklin by the score of 9-5 in a Twilight Baseball League game played yesterday at Klondyke.

Jim Winters, who relieved Francis Allen on the mound, received credit for the win, his third against as many losses this season.

George Muller homered in the first inning for the Colts. Frank Buskirk slammed a triple, double and single and Charley Winters rapped a double and two singles.

Broy accounted for two of Franklin's seven hits, one of the blows being a triple.

Today Barton is scheduled to play at Westernport at 5:30 p.m. If the field is unfit for play at Westernport the game will be transferred to Barton.

Yesterday's score:

Franklin 301 010 6-8 7-5
Klondyke 200 331 8-9 12-1

Score Stops Bosox, 9-1, Chisox Grab 2nd Place

Herb Hurls Five
Hitter; Sievers
Continues Spree

CHICAGO (UPI) — Hard luck Herb Score allowed only five scattered singles Monday night and smashed a single and triple to lead the Chicago White Sox to second place with a 9-1 win over the Boston Red Sox.

The victory slipped the White Sox one-half game ahead of the now-third place Cleveland Indians. Chicago, however, still was two games behind American League leading New York.

Score, making his ninth start in search of his second win, gave up a lone run in the second on a lead off walk, a single and a sacrifice fly. After that, he let only five Red Sox reach base and none got past second.

Score At His Best
It was southpaw Score's best performance of the season. He gave up five hits and one run against Baltimore July 3, but that game went to extra innings and Score was pulled for a pinch batter in the 10th.

The White Sox attack was paced by Minnie Minoso, and Al Smith, with two hits each.

Boston had opened with one run in the second but Chicago came back with three in the third off starter and loser Billy Muffett on two walks, Minoso's double, Smith's single and sacrifice fly.

The White Sox added another in the fourth on singles by Luis Aparicio and score plus an infield grounder, then pounded Muffett for four more runs in the sixth on Score's triple, three singles and a walk. Reliever Earl Wilson finally shut off the rally after giving another single to Roy Sievers.

Roy Hits In 21

Sievers' single ran his consecutive game hitting streak to 21, the longest stretch in the American League this season. Minoso's total of 101 hits gave him the league lead in that department, ahead of Smith, who had 100, and Boston's Pete Runnels, who had 99.

The White Sox nicked Wilson for a final run in the seventh on Smith's 10th hit, a lead off single, followed by a wild pitch and a single by Gene Freese, who has collected 22 hits against the Red Sox this season in 33 times at bat.

Ford Pitches Yanks To Win Over Indians

Maris And Mantle
Homer In 9-2 Tilt;
Woodie Held Hurt

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Mickey Mantle hit his 22nd homer with two on and Roger Maris connected for his 29th to power the league leading New York Yankees to a 9-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Monday night behind Whitey Ford's eight-hit pitching.

The loss was doubly costly to the Indians, who lost the services of shortstop Woodie Held when he suffered a broken finger in the first inning. Held is expected to be sidelined from three to five weeks.

Ford never was in any serious difficulty in registering his first victory since July 6 and his sixth of the campaign against five losses.

Stigman Is Victim
The Yankees sewed up the game when they broke a 1-1 tie with a five-run burst off rookie Dick Stigman in a wild fourth inning.

Elston Howard started the rally with a single, Bobby Richardson also singled and the bases were safe on a fielder's choice. Howard scored on Cletis Boyer's sacrifice fly and Hector Lopez then bounced back to Stigman.

The Cleveland pitcher threw to second, forcing Ford, but Johnny Temple's throw to first was ruled too late to get Lopez. This touched off a heated argument with umpire Cal Drummond, who ejected Cleveland coach Mel Harder and outfielder Chuck Tanner.

Richardson scored on the play and after order was restored, Maris singled and Mantle unloaded his homer.

Latman Yields Three
The Yankees added their final three runs off reliever Barry Latman, who yielded the homer by Maris in the ninth.

Johnny Romano accounted for both Cleveland runs. He hit his 10th homer of the season in the second inning and his sacrifice fly brought in Ken Aspromonte in the fourth.

Veteran Bucs Praise Rookie Earl Francis

Young Hurler Has Good Stuff, Poise

By ALBERT AUVIL
United Press International
PITTSBURGH (UPI)—"With a little more experience, this kid could become one of the game's great pitchers."

That was the tribute paid rookie Earl Francis of the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday before the team took off for the West Coast and a crucial series with the fast-closing Los Angeles Dodgers.

"Francis has everything you look for in a great pitcher," said bullpen coach Sam Narmon. "He has a good curve ball, an excellent fast ball and he is young."

Veteran Bob Friend agreed. He's also high on the strong-armed righthander who hails from the small mining town of Slab Fork, W. Va.

Francis was called up from Columbus of the International League three weeks ago along with Tom Cheney to replace Benie Daniels and Jim Umbricht on the faltering Pirate mound staff.

Francis won his first big league game last Saturday with a fine relief job against the Cincinnati Reds.

Although this is only his third year in organized ball, Francis has been showing amazing development. He celebrated his 24th birthday last Thursday night by pitching 1 2-3 innings of scoreless relief against Milwaukee.

He is used principally as the "long" relief man, with Elroy Face and left Fred Green mopping up.

"Get 'em Out!" Francis said he has only one thought when called in to pitch in a tight spot—"Get 'em out." His favorite pitch is the fast ball.

Earl did not play baseball while attending Stratton High School at Beckley, W. Va. He devoted his scholastic career to football as an outstanding tackle.

Francis was sent to Columbus after working out with the Pirates this spring. He had a 5-4 record when called up last month.

The 6-foot-2 Negro is optimistic about the Pirates' chances of winning the 1960 pennant. "I believe we are going to win because we have the team to do it," he said.

Carl Cops 12 In Row

Lehman Is Standout

HAROLD "Butch" Carl, of the Springfield Rockets of the Hampshire County Baseball League, owns the longest winning streak of any sandlot pitcher in the tri-state area.

Carl posted an 8-0 record last season, the first year of the nearby West Virginia circuit, and he extended his victory string to 12 games last Sunday when he twirled Manager "Ike" Grimm's tossers to a 13-1 win over Capon Bridge. That win made his 1960 record 4-0.

"Butch" is the son of Harold Carl, who will be remembered as a one-time member of the Maryland State Police at the LaVale Barracks, and later as a photographer at Frostburg. The senior Carl now is employed on the security force at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

VOHN LEHMAN, youthful pitching ace of the Hyndman Merchants, current pacesetter in the Pen-Mar Baseball League, owns an impressive record since he came into that circuit late last season.

Lehman has recorded 11 wins and lost only two games for the Pennsylvanians.

Vohn had a 2-1 record for the regular 1959 season and he was Hyndman's key man in the playoffs with a 3-0 mark. He put the Merchants in the finals by beating Centerville, 4-2, then turned back Barreilleville, 4-1 and 11-4, in the second and third games of the final series to give Hyndman the playoff crown.

This season he has accounted for half of Hyndman's (12-3) victories, scoring six wins while losing one decision. He has beaten every team in the league once but Barreilleville and suffered his only setback at the hands of the Old Exports.

In 1958 and 1959 he pitched Hyndman High School to successive championships in the Bedford County League, winning 10 of 13 games. This year his record at Hyndman High was 4-3.

NATIONAL Leaguers admit missing the pleasure of playing in New York and Brooklyn.

Dick Groat, the Pirates' brilliant shortstop, says he misses those infields at Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds because "they were the best in the league."

THE MYSTERY of what happened to Clyde "Hard Times" Green, the Romney High School mentor who quit the Pioneers after his 1959-60 quint posted a 27-0 record and won the West Virginia Class AA title, is nearing a solution.

Clyde was supposed to take a coaching job in Florida but it seems he was told to hang around West Virginia because he might get the coaching plum at South Charleston High School.

Announcement came out of Charleston yesterday that Jack E. Surrette had formally resigned as head basketball coach at South Charleston High School. He has accepted a post as basketball coach at Seabreeze High School in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Green Standing By

Soap Is Important

Green hails from Kanawha county where he was a standout performer at East Bank High School. Then he went on to West Virginia U. where he gained fame as a defensive star in basketball.

He is reported to be an applicant for the South Charleston job.

At the close of the P.V.C. baseball season Green told the writer not to say he was headed for the Florida because he had an opportunity to get a better job.

JOSEPH M. HARVEY, 43, of Bowling Green, who died July 1 in Garrett County Memorial Hospital after suffering a heart attack at his Deep Creek Lake cottage, was one of the stars on Bruce High School soccer teams of the 1930s.

It was during the 1930s that Coach John "Chip" Grindle's teams won six consecutive W.M.I. League championships.

Joe was employed at the Celanese plant for 25 years. He was a native Cumberlander, the son of Mrs. Carrie (Shuck) Harvey.

GLAD TO HEAR that Ralph "Rats" Dickel, the veteran Mt. Savage pitcher, is recuperating after being hospitalized here.

Dickel, one of the best liked sandlot players in the tri-state area, was discharged from Sacred Heart Hospital last weekend after being a patient there about two weeks.

Ralph, who is said to have cut his first teeth on a baseball, pitched only once this year and that was on June 29 when he toiled 7 1/2 innings on the rubber for the Old Germans. Three days later he was hospitalized.

Dickel is the oldest active baseball player in the area and he's only 49.

SINCE Allegany and Fort Hill dropped out of basketball competition in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League they have been knocked off the North Hagerstown schedule by Coach Mel Henry.

North High will pick up Green-castle as one replacement.

The most important addition to the Campers' schedule is the return of Keyser High which was dropped several years ago, thus interrupting a cage series that had extended over approximately 45 years.

The one-time football coach at Ridgeley and Allegany has been instructor of the Baltimore Colts' offensive line since 1956.

His last previous association with a championship outfit was in 1945 when he served as game scout for the Washington Redskins who copped conference honors but bowed, 15-14, to the Cleveland Rams in the title contest.

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW. The opening of the local football season is just seven weeks away. Allegany and Altoona Catholic High open here Friday, September 9. Fort Hill and LaSalle clash on the following night.

Net Star Weeds

ROME (AP)—Italy's number one tennis player, Nicola Pietrangeli, was married Monday to Miss Susanna Arterio, a former Rome fashion model.

The ceremony took place in the Campidoglio, Rome's city hall.

ahead in the rich race by seven laps when a hunk of flying metal gapped his gas tank.

Mechanics slid under the car and attempted to stop the gushing gas. You can't weld a leaking gas tank and adhesives won't stick, so the mechanics crammed rags and steel wool into the hole. It didn't work.

"Anybody got any Octagon soap?" one of the mechanics yelled.

A spectator came up with a cake of bath soap but it was too small and too hard. A cake of the larger, softer Octagon might have plugged the hole.

Octagon soap—like pliers—probably will be a regular item in every race mechanic's tool chest from now on.

$30,000,000 Dam Proposed At Rowlesburg

Hearing Is Called On Cheat Project

KINGWOOD, W. Va. — A public hearing to determine the advisability of the construction of a more than $30,000,000 flood control project on the Cheat river with a dam at Rowlesburg, will be held here Friday, August 12, Colonel W. W. Smith, District Engineer for the U. S. Corps of Engineers said yesterday.

The hearing will be held in the Preston County Courthouse at 10 a. m. (EDT) under the direction of Col. Smith. The purpose of the hearing is to consider the advisability of the Rowlesburg reservoir on the Cheat River and its uses in flood control, supplemental development for the generation of hydroelectric power and incidental low-flow water regulation.

The proposed dam would be built at Rowlesburg at an estimated cost of nearly $30,000,000, according to the district engineers report, with an annual budget of $171,500 for maintenance and operation. The reservoir created by the dam would occupy the Cheat river valley between Rowlesburg and Parsons, a distance of more than 20 miles.

The principal purpose of the dam would be to control floods rising in the 941 square miles of the Cheat river basin. Secondary functions would include the generation of hydroelectric power, coordinated storage releases for power and low water regulation to supplement low flows in the lower Cheat, lower Monongahela, and upper Ohio Rivers. Flood protection would be offered for the Cheat, Monongahela, and Ohio River Valleys including the Pittsburgh and Wheeling metropolitan areas.

Approximately 10,000 acres of land would have to be acquired by the federal government for the institution of this project, Smith said.

The federal representatives present for the hearing will hear and accept evidence as to the nature and amount of flood protection at the various stages of the river, the nature and amount of flood damage in the various affected areas, and what effects flood protection would have on the value of improved and unimproved lands in the area.

All interested parties are expected to be present or represented at the above time and place, including representatives of federal, state, county, and municipal agencies, and those of commercial, industrial, civic, highway, railroad, utility, and flood control interests, and property owners concerned. They will be afforded full opportunity to express their views concerning the character and extent of the reservoir under consideration and the need for and advisability of it. Proponents of the improvement are invited to present factual data bearing upon these matters. Opposing interests, if any, are also urged to state the reasons for their position, Col. Smith said.

Mathias Man Finds Gas In Water System

MATHIAS, W. Va. — Arthur Sherman says he has natural gas on his property.

He tells the story this way: After being away from home for five years he returned to find that the water pump would not work. He tried to fix it for three days, and then called a plumber. The plumber had no luck, either. Then someone lit a match. The explosion broke a window out of the house. Sherman ran to all the hydrants in the chicken houses and lit matches at each one. The faucets produced streams of fire instead of water.

He checked with the owners of a gas line which passes about two miles from his home, but they could find no leaks.

So, Sherman says, he's going into the gas business. Although a large West Virginia company won't drill for it, they'll buy the gas he produces, he said, so he's calling in a wildcat company from Oklahoma to drill.

Before returning to the states September 18, the Domenicks and his sister, who is accompanying them, will spend several weeks touring Rome and Vatican City.

Garrett School Conferences Are Scheduled

All Teaching Posts Filled

OAKLAND — Meetings in preparation for the opening of the fall school term were scheduled at a recent session of the Board of Education with Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools. Three conferences are planned.

A meeting for all cafeteria workers, with Robert R. Martin in charge, will be held August 30. Principals will meet in the school board office August 31.

Teachers are scheduled to meet at Southern High School September 1 for an all-day session. There will be guest speakers and group sessions. All teachers will then report to their schools September 2, and classes will open for the 1960-61 term September 6, at 9 a. m. for a full day's session.

Hawkins said that all vacancies in the teaching staff had been filled and that there had been no resignations since late May. Lewis P. Walker, new principal at Northern High School, who is succeeding Paul Muha, is scheduled to report for duty this week. Parents, students or teachers wishing to contact Mr. Walker may do so at the school.

Insurance and other items were discussed at the board meeting. Hawkins reported on increased cost of utilities for schools on fuel, light and water, showing an increase of $5,000 per year since 1955, particularly the cost of fuel and water. The matter of providing its own water supply for Dennett Road and Southern High was tabled for further study.

The matter of a minimum fixed sum by an insurance company carrying insurance on school buses, in cases of fatal accidents, was discussed, as was of carrying more liability insurance.

The resignation of Carl Bowman as bus contractor in the Keyser Ridge area was accepted.

Among items approved were: Assignment of duties of transportation supervisor; equipment needed in various schools during the year; purchase of two new lawn mowers for Dennett and Northern, and a new stage curtain for Red House.

New Gas Line Creates Jobs In Davis Area

DAVIS, W. Va. — Construction of a natural gas pipeline near here has brought work to more than 150 men in this depressed area, but there has been a feeling that more area workers should have been employed on the pipeline.

Major C. H. Gilmore of Davis said this feeling among some of the families was caused by "a lack of understanding." Many of the skilled and technical jobs could not be given to workers here, either because they were unable to handle them or because they didn't qualify under union regulations, he said.

R. T. Snipe, office manager for the Williams Brothers Company, which is constructing the pipeline, said 50 to 60 per cent of the 315 workers were hired "locally." They are mainly laborers, though some qualified as tractor and bulldozer operators.

Work began May 15 on this section of the pipeline extending a distance of 43 miles from Terra Alta to Mouth of Seneca, W. Va. Work is to be completed by late August or early September.

Williams Brothers, with headquarters in Tulsa, works on pipeline construction throughout the world, spokesmen said. This pipeline is being built for the Atlantic Seaboard Corporation.

Westernport "Bottleneck" Gets Priority

County Officials
Rate Needed Jobs

Plans of the State Roads Commission to alleviate the highway traffic "bottleneck" in Westernport (where State Routes 135 and 36 meet) were placed atop the priority list yesterday when State Senator Charles M. See, members of the Allegany County delegation in the House of Delegates and County Commissioners met at the Court House to discuss improvements needed along secondary roads of the county.

John J. Rowan, president of the Board of Commissioners, explained the purpose of the meeting. He said the SRC requested that the officials meet and inform the commission as to the priority on road improvements which would be included in the state's five-year secondary road program.

Recommendations by the county group will be sent to the SRC and will be presented to the Legislature when it meets in 1961 in accordance with House Bill 14, which deals with the secondary roads program in Maryland. Some $40,000,000 has been appropriated for the five-year plan in the state's 23 counties.

"Bottleneck" Priority

After discussing the various roads in the county and the more urgent needs, it was unanimously agreed that the top priority should be the alleviation of the "bottleneck" in Westernport.

A motion to that effect was made by Delegate Lester B. Reed and seconded by Delegate Thomas F. Conlon Jr. Last April town officials of Westernport expressed approval when the SRC outlined details of the plan for improving Route 36 in that community.

Second on the priority list was the elimination of a hazard along Route 36 in the vicinity of Valley High School where children walk to and from the school. Commissioner William A. Wilson made a motion to be placed second in priority and Commissioner John T. Mason seconded the motion.

Third on the list was much needed improvement to Route 36 from Lonaconing to Phoenix Hill in the vicinity of Franklin where the improvement work alleviating the Westernport situation would link up.

Wilson Makes Motion

Commissioner Wilson made a motion for that priority listing and his motion was seconded by Mr. Rowan. This too was voted on unanimously by those in attendance.

Mr. Rowan then made a motion that fourth priority should be improvement work to Uhl Highway (Route 51) from Evitts Creek bridge to North Branch.

Delegate Conlon seconded the motion which was carried unanimously. Mr. Rowan, during a discussion of that phase of improvement work, said it was "essential to the progress of the county" and it would "open up the Mexico Farms area" to new industries which may decide to build plants here.

Fifth Priority

Fifth on the priority listing would be improvement work along Route 36 from Barrelville through Frostburg to Lonaconing. Delegate Reed's motion was seconded by Delegate Conlon.

Route 51 from North Branch to Paw Paw at the Potomac River bridge was placed sixth on the list. Commissioner Mason's motion was seconded by Delegate Conlon.

One other phase of improvement work came into the picture near the conclusion of the meeting. Commissioner Mason made a motion that Vocke Road be widened from Route 40 to Winchester Road. This was the seventh project. Delegate Reed seconded the motion.

Senator See said he felt that the 40 million dollars for the five-year program is inadequate for the "safety of the public" and that additional appropriations should be sought.

He feels that Route 36 from Barrelville through Frostburg to Westernport is "extremely hazardous."

"Pep Pills" Get Blame For Daze

Pennsylvania State Police yesterday blamed an overdose of so-called "pep pills" for the dazed condition of a young local airman who was found wandering in a wooded area near Uniontown.

The Air Force man, James E. Cameron, 21, of 708 North Centre Street, was picked up by state troopers on Sunday after several persons reported him wandering near Route 119.

Officers said that when taken into custody, Airman Cameron was incoherent. He spent the night in jail in Uniontown and early Monday was given an examination. It was determined he was suffering from an overdose of a drug called dexadrine, which often is used to ward off sleep.

Cameron told authorities he was in the Air Force and was stationed at Sheppard AF Base in Texas and was on furlough. A later check by police led to the finding of his car, which had been abandoned along the highway.

He was released from jail and permitted to go on his way.

CUF Budget Wind-Up

The CUF allocations committee wound up its hearings on the budgets of 28 affiliated agencies with an all-day session in the board room of the Liberty Trust Building yesterday. A part of the hard-working group is shown above with three representatives of the Boy Scouts. Pictured, clockwise around the table, are James C. Warden, Boy Scout executive board member; Willis V. Smith, Boy Scout executive; Clarence Lippel, Boy Scout Council president; John Batcha Jr., allocations committee co-chairman, and G. Harley Dixon, Mrs. Dorothy Kight and Lester C. Anderson, all allocations committee members from the Tri-Towns. The CUF goal for the 1960 campaign to be held in the fall will be set from the findings.

SERVICES SET— A requiem mass for William Thomas Byrne, 28, of 120 Polk Street, who was killed instantly Saturday in a car-truck collision on Route 55, will be celebrated tomorrow at 9 a. m. at St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Burial will be in St. Peter and Paul Cemetery. The body is at the residence on Polk Street.

Allocations Committee Ends CUF Budget Talks

After hundreds of man-hours of hard work, one of the area's biggest bookkeeping jobs neared its conclusion late yesterday when the CUF allocations committee finished its budget hearings for 28 CUF agencies in the board room of the Liberty Trust Building.

Eight hours went into yesterday's hearings alone, while others had been held for over a week, in Keyser, Tri-Towns and Frostburg.

Prior to the scheduled hearings, each agency had put in long hours preparing its budget for presentation to the allocations committee, which representing the interests of the united giver, sought the answer to one big question: "What do you do with the money?"

One by one, each agency trooped to the hearings, represented for the most part by volunteer workers. Its budgeted operations were picked apart, discussed, expanded or contracted — as each agency gave an accounting of its stewardship.

Out of the hearings the allocations committee, which will meet again later this week, must come up with a goal for next year's CUF operations. Running roughly to a third of a million dollars for 28 services that extend into 31 communities in seven counties of three states, the job of fixing the goal is taken seriously by the volunteer watchdog committee.

At this week's final meeting, the allocators will grind the figures of the agencies still finer in the crucible of experience and need and community betterment. Next week, the allocations committee then goes before the CUF executive committee—the governing body elected by united givers at their annual meeting.

Here they must justify their findings. They will recommend a goal for the 1960 campaign. There will be further questions. Finally, the executive committee will set the goal for the fourth mighty united campaign to be held throughout the area this fall.

Co-chairmen of this year's allocations committee are William A. Cook, Duane L. Boyd and John Batcha, Jr. Members of the committee are Dr. Lillian Compton, Judge George Henderson, Harry W. McCann, Mrs. George M. Young, James E. Banger, Mrs. Bernard Kelly, George Lashbaugh, Robert Prichard, Dr. Ernest E. Church, Mrs. James H. Swadley, Jr., J. Lee Temple, Walter Terrick, Lester C. Anderson, G. Harley Dixon, Mrs. Dorothy Kight and Jack I. Mullen.

The agencies whose budgets have been scanned during the past week are Boy Scouts, Potomac Council; Girl Scouts, Shawnee Council; YMCA, Cumberland; Flintstone Health Center; American Red Cross, Allegany Chapter; Health Research and Services Foundation; Associated Charities; Baby Welfare Society; USO; Salvation Army; Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation; Friends Aware, Cumberland; United Charities, Keyser; YMCA, West Virginia-Mineral County; Keyser-Mineral County Library; American Red Cross, Mineral County Chapter; Piedmont Library; United Organizations, McCoolle; Westernport Health Center; United Organizations, Tri-Towns; United Organizations, Barton Area; American Red Cross, Piedmont Chapter; Friends Aware, Westernport; United Family Service, Frostburg area; Midland Medical Center; Lonaconing Health Center and Friends Aware, Frostburg.

The Police Department is investigating four reports of tampering and thefts of equipment from automobiles over the weekend.

Detective Capt. James E. Van said Gordon Walter, 138 Reynolds Street, reported yesterday that fender guides, license light frames, and chrome tail pipe were stripped from his car parked near his home Sunday night, and that the aerial was bent and a ventilation glass cracked.

Mrs. John H. Nickle, 710 Frederick Street, reported that a mirror was removed from the left fender of her car parked in an alley near her home Sunday night.

W. R. Stickley, said two mirrors were taken from his car Sunday, that the antenna was damaged and the paint scratched.

DeWarren O'Neal, 212 Reynolds Street, said two sideview mirrors were taken from his car, parked in front of his home Sunday night.

Mayor Keech said the commission's recommendation will be presented to the Mayor and Council next Monday.

Half Inch Rainfall Hits City

3.18 Inches Nears July Average

Yesterday afternoon and evening's rain storms dumped over a half inch of rain and caused scattered minor damage to power lines in the area.

The first storm hit the city about 3 p.m. and lasted just a few minutes before the sun was back out causing the mercury to climb back into the 80s.

An electrical storm about 6 p.m. caused scattered but apparently minor damage to power lines in the section.

Several homes on West Side were without lights when lightning hit in that area. Service was restored by 7 p.m.

There also were some scattered service interruptions in the Baltimore Pike and Christie Road areas.

Wind during the afternoon blew off a manhole at Sylvan Avenue and Holland Street at 3:18 p.m. and City Police Officer John H. Stichter was dispatched to replace it.

The unofficial temperature downtown yesterday afternoon when the first storm hit was 88 degrees and it dropped sharply to 76 degrees. The mercury climbed back 84 degrees after the rain ceased but dipped 10 degrees to 68 when the rain storm hit at 6 p.m.

Robert R. Golden, official weather observer in Constitution Park, said yesterday's rainfall measured .34 inches following the storm at 6 p.m.

Yesterday's total brought July's total to 3.18 inches, just short of the normal for the month which is 3.26 inches.

Baltimore Pike Firemen Will Collect Cards

Members of the Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company will begin collecting the annual fund drive coin cards today, according to President Carl Mallow.

The firemen hope to collect about $1,500 for payment on the company's new fire truck. The collection will be completed by Saturday, July 30.

Injured Man Reported 'Fair'

Paul T. Byrne, 36, Lonaconing, was reported in "fair" condition last night at Sacred Heart Hospital with injuries he sustained in a car-truck crash Saturday night.

Donald Doolan, 27, of 605 North Centre Street, who also was injured in the crash, was reported in "fair" condition at the same hospital.

Doolan was moved from Miners Hospital, Frostburg, Sunday, and Byrne was transferred to the local hospital from the Frostburg institution yesterday morning.

Gasoline Fumes Cause Minor Fire

East Side Fire Company was called to the home of John Tucker, 428 Columbia Street, early yesterday afternoon after fumes from a can of gasoline were ignited by a hot water heater.

Firemen said the fire caused no damage and was out on arrival and that the family was advised that gasoline should not be stored inside a home.

Multiple Light Plan Adopted In South End

Virginia-Laing Signs To Revert Thursday

Traffic will be able to move on Virginia Avenue from the B & O Subway past Fifth Street without a stop under a plan announced yesterday by Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

The program provides for the installation of three traffic lights. The first will be at the southern entrance of the subway, the second at Virginia and Laing avenues and the third at Virginia Avenue and Fifth Street.

Commissioner Fleming said the coordination of the proposed lights will allow drivers who get a green light at the subway to proceed at a predetermined pace so they will get green lights at Laing Avenue and Fifth Street.

He said that now that a satisfactory plan has been worked out, it will be possible to have traffic signs at Laing and Virginia revert back to the way they were early this month, pending the installation of the lights.

Signs To Revert

Beginning Thursday morning, a "stop" sign will be placed at the Industrial Boulevard at Laing, and slow signs on Virginia Avenue.

He said he hopes to have the lights in operation during the first week of September.

Mr. Fleming said John D. Bushby, District 6 engineer for the State Roads Commission, was pleased when he learned of the plan.

The commissioner said the trial which has been held recently proves that the light system is the solution to the problem and not stop signs.

The plan was worked out at a meeting yesterday in City Hall, attended by Mr. Fleming, Police Chief B. F. Gaffney, City Engineer C. R. Nuzum and Clayton E. Kennard, engineer of a firm which makes traffic lights.

Plan Walk Cycles

Mr. Nuzum was asked to expedite the preparation of specifications for five traffic lights. The Mayor and Council has already authorized the Police Department to advertise for bids.

They will include a modern light at Dingle Circle, activated by oncoming traffic and equipped with a button operated pedestrian cycle.

A similar light is planned at the intersection of Williams Street and Maryland Avenue.

A button control for foot traffic will also be incorporated into the Laing and Virginia light. All three on Virginia Avenue can be operated from a master control.

Jury To Hear Evidence In Ritter Death

A special session of the Hardy County (W. Va.) Grand Jury has been called for Thursday to consider evidence in the case of Wilson C. Zirk, 45, of Old Fields, who has been charged with manslaughter in the death of Eldridge Lee Ritter, 33, of Stephens City, Va.

Ritter, a salesman, was found dead early last Thursday morning in his parked car on the outskirts of Moorefield. Zirk, who has been released under $2,500 bond, was scheduled to appear at the October term of court, but requested an immediate hearing.

Local Man Arrested On Juvenile Charge

Donald Lloyd Norton, 27, of 412 Footer Place, is being held in the County Jail on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a small girl.

Norton was arrested Friday and was given a hearing yesterday afternoon in Juvenile Court. However, Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin continued the case until another day.

FRANK B. CAMERON

F. B. Cameron Promoted By Celanese Firm

New Vice President In Plastics Division

Frank B. Cameron, production manager of the Amcelle plant, has been appointed vice president and manager of manufacturing for Celanese Plastics Company, a division of Celanese Corporation of America.

Mr. Cameron's appointment was one of several made in a recent reorganization of Celanese divisional operations. Under the reorganization, the Celanese Plastics Company is now responsible for the development, manufacture and marketing of converted polymers in the field of plastic film, sheeting and blow molded products.

In the other appointments, Edward W. Ward was named vice president and director of marketing for Celanese Plastics Company and Harold L. Shepherd was appointed special advisor to David Taylor, president of the firm.

Others appointed in the division were Martin T. Cloran, controller; Frank Brown, technical director, and Fred L. Symonds, planning director.

Mr. Cameron received a B. S. degree in textile engineering from Clemson College in 1949 and studied cost accounting at the Columbus Extension of the University of Georgia.

He was with the Anderson Mills of the Bibb Manufacturing Company in Columbus, Ga., before he joined Celanese as technical superintendent at the Lanese plant in Burlington, N. C., in May 1956.

Mr. Cameron was named manager of the Lanese plant in June 1958, a post he held until coming to the local plant.

Mr. Cameron, who resided with his wife and three children on Warfield Place, LaVale, will be located in Newark, N. J., in his new capacity. While in Cumberland, he was a member of the Rotary Club.

He expects to move his family to New Jersey as soon as suitable housing can be found.

Home Is Planned On Fairmont Avenue

G. Robert Spangler, 611 Lynn Street, secured a permit from the City of Cumberland yesterday to build a one-story frame dwelling on Fairmont Avenue at its intersection with Ridge Terrace.

The home will be about 36 by 26 feet and is estimated to cost $8,000. Quentin L. Griffey, Ellerslie, will be the contractor.

To Show Old Pictures

Herman J. Miller, a member of the Cumberland Fire Department, will show a series of old pictures of Cumberland and the surrounding area at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Optimist Club tomorrow at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Woman Indicted For Homicide In Kin's Death

Grand Jury Called In Special Session

Mrs. Alice Davis Harper, 25, of East Sparta, Ohio, yesterday morning was indicted on a homicide charge by the Hampshire County, W. Va. grand jury which was called into special session as a result of the July 11 fatal shooting of her stepfather, French Junior White, 49, of near Springfield.

White was shot in the back with a slug from a .22 calibre rifle, allegedly fired by Mrs. Harper, mother of three small children, who was on a visit at the home of her stepfather.

One-Hour Session

The grand jury convened at 9 a.m. yesterday at the Hampshire County Court House and within about an hour and a half returned a felony indictment for homicide, Ralph W. Haines, prosecuting attorney for the county, said.

After being indicted, Mrs. Harper appeared before Judge H. G. Munzing in the court room for arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty through her counsel, William H. Ansel Jr. of Springfield.

Bond was set at $5,000 and Mrs. Harper was released. The trial date has been set for July 27 in Hampshire County Circuit Court, said Attorney Haines.

Six witnesses were called upon yesterday during the meeting of the grand jury.

They include the victim's wife, Gertie White, mother of the accused woman; Clinton White, Marjorie Steward and Elsie Steward, neighbors; Sgt. R. R. Karickhoff, head of the Romney detachment of the West Virginia State Police, who investigated the shooting; and A. L. Russell, justice of the peace at Romney. Milleson Was Foreman

Siles Milleson of Springfield was foreman of the grand jurors. Evidence in the case was presented by Prosecuting Attorney Haines.

The shooting reportedly took place during a family argument at the White home. It has been reliably reported that Mrs. Harper informed police that she discharged the rifle when she believed her husband's life was in danger.

It is reported her husband and stepfather had engaged in an argument outside the victim's home and that the victim had a shotgun in his possession.

Prior to yesterday's grand jury deliberations, Mrs. Harper had been free on $2,500 bond set by A. L. Russell the day after the shooting. She had been held on a murder warrant.

Touring Cyclist Gets Here

Robert Hall, 24, of Annapolis, who is attempting to ride a bicycle from Annapolis to Alaska, spent the night in Cumberland, and will resume his journey this morning.

Hall, who left his home Saturday, arrived in the city yesterday evening after covering the distance between Hancock and here in 10 hours.

The cyclist said he will take to the road about 8 a. m. today and plans to try and make it as far as Uniontown, Pa. tomorrow. From there he will move into Pittsburgh.

He said he hopes to average at least 50 miles each day and so far is slightly ahead of his pace, covering 173 miles in the first three days of his 3,500-mile journey.

Hall plans to camp out each night with the exception of one night a week when he will stay at a hotel and catch up on his laundry. He expects the bike trip to the 49th state will take him about two months.

He said he decided to spend the night at the Allegany Hotel Inn since he and his gear got soaking wet in the hard rain storm yesterday afternoon.

Crystal Theatre Buys Property In County

The Market Buildings Inc. has sold two parcels of land to the Crystal Theatre Corporation, according to a deed filed yesterday in the land records office of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The parcels of land are located on the southeast and north side of Braddock Run. The property had been conveyed to the corporation by Katherine Beveridge and others in a deed dated July 16, 1951.

Their attendants will be Joan Morrissey, Judy Scritchfield and John Morrissey.

Diane and Kathy Ritchie will dance and sign during the coronation ceremony.

A flower club was formed yesterday by Centre Street Playlot. Sherry Weisenmiller was named chairman of the 18-member club.

Lightning Flash Burns Mattress At Westernport

A freakish lightning flash destroyed a mattress in the home of James E. McCutcheon, 127 Wood Street, Westernport, about 5:50 p.m. yesterday but apparently did no other damage.

Witnesses reported that lightning struck a tree in the rear of the McCutcheon home and apparently the sparks carried along a radio wire into the bedroom, setting fire to the mattress.

Volunteer firemen from Potomac Fire Company No. 2, Westernport, and Tri-Towns Fire Company No. 1, Piedmont, responded. They kept the fire from spreading beyond the burned mattress. They were at the scene about 30 minutes. The McCutcheons were not at home at the time.

Bowling Green Bazaar Queen Crowned

Miss Bonnie Mae Parks of Potomac Park is shown being crowned as senior queen of the week-long bazaar being held this week by the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company. County Commissioner John T. Mason is shown placing the crown on her head. Looking on is Mrs. Irene Shipley, who served as chairman of the queen committee. There were five contestants for the top honor.
